Loading Tax on Big

Fellow Puts Tax Plus

Markup on Little One

How the Truman administration has destroyed the dignity and integrity of the federal government and brought its policies down to the level of the lowest vote-snatching campaign in a city slum is illustrated by current tax policies--and their inevitable effect on the cost of living.

The government truly needs more money to meet the cost of war in Korea and rearmament against Russia in Europe, but instead of honestly distributing this cost across the board to all the people the Truman "politicians" produce a magic formula which they say is going to load most of the cost on the big fellows. Taxes will be especially high for big corporations, and for the very rich. These are the big fellows—but who do the little fellows buy the necessities of life from if it isn't the big fellows?

Here's what I'm talking about: Everyone pays taxes, either directly or indirectly. And the cheapest tax is the one you pay yourself.

The indirect tax is the one that's passed on to you by the big fellow in higher prices. His own tax pushes up his costs and since his profit markup goes against the total cost you have to pay not only his tax but a percentage markup on same.

It's like the argument about whether it's cheaper to own your own house or rent it. Everyone knows it's cheaper to own one—unless you are stupid enough to believe you can afford to hire a manager for your real estate.

Yet the Truman politicians are trying to "sell" the American people this very idea—that it's cheaper to let the big fellows "manage" your tax bill than to pay it directly.

But the price reports on the everyday things you and I have to buy make the Truman politicians hairs out of the whole cloth.

For instance, the whole industrial and commercial world of America is terrified because the pending tax bill in Washington proposes to make its new high rates retroactive back to January 1—although the year 1951 is now nearly three-fourths gone. Let's see what this threat means to one of the industrial giants, United States Steel:

Yesterday's Wall Street Journal reported that, the retroactive feature of the tax bill would mean 23 million dollars more federal tax for that one company the first six months of this year alone. U. S.

Steel has already reported first-half earnings of $3.61 a share, and the added tax would amount to nearly $1 a share—making it necessary for the company to issue a corrected earnings report of only $2.70.

And if the stockholders no longer know where they stand you can imagine the consternation among the people who have to buy from U. S. Steel—for with that, added cost against goods already sold and paid for the firm isn't going to fool around in marking up prices for the goods it will sell tomorrow.

What happens next? You read it yesterday in Associated Press dispatches out of Detroit, Ford and Chrysler motor companies announced pending price increases on their cars, and General Motors has an increase in the making.

The long arm of U. S. Steel reaches out to every industry and every town and farm in the land. They will all pay—every one of them.

And they will pay more than they would have had to pay if the Truman politicians had come to them directly with a straight and honest story.

Chinese Hint Strafing Apology Not Acceptable

The Peking radio hinted today that the Communists might reject an Allied apology for the accidental strafing of the Kaesong neutral zone Monday.

The hope of peace for Korea balances gingerly on the Red reaction to the Allied apology. And there has been considerable optimism in Tokyo that the Reds will accept the apology and return to the conference table.

On the Korean fighting front there is increased action in the east. Allied divisions are attacking northward across the mountainous terrain.

Meanwhile, the Defense Department has announced the U. S. battle casualties in Korea reached 62,362 today—an increase of 596 since last week.

Fullbright Tells Why He Backs Truman

Washington Sept. 12 — (AP) — Senator Fulbright (D-Ark), who said recently that he would support President Truman for re-election if Mr. Truman gets the Democratic nomination, has elaborated on his stand.

The senator told a newsman he had received many letters from Arkansas criticizing his position which he stated on a national radio broadcast.

In a letter to the Arkansas Gazette in Little Rock, Senator Fulbright said:

I feel sure that many of those who have written such critical letters to the Gazette and to me did not hear the complete broadcast but jumped to the conclusion on the basis of the headlines in the press."

Fulbright pointed out in the letter that when he first became a candidate for public office in 1942, he signed a pledge that I would support the Democratic nominees in the general election.

"So long as I held public office as a result of having been elected to that office a nominee of the Democratic party, it seems to me that it is my duty to abide by the established rules of the party," said the senator.

He added that this does not mean that I should blindly follow every policy of a Democratic president, and I have not, as everyone knows.

However, since I believe that our two-party system is the best that I can think of for the orderly conduct of our government, I feel that it is my duty to support the basic rules of the system."

Fulbright did not say who he would support for the Democratic presidential nomination. In 1948, he supported Senator Russell (D-Ga) for the nomination.

Politics Shaping Up in Speeches

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Sept. 11 — Observe President Truman, former President Hoover and Gen. Douglas MacArthur have made speeches recently and all three had one thing in common.

Instead of naming names and being specific, they referred to general charges and general insults. Not one of them would admit that following the old technique of public speakers mixed up "what's happened?"

In all three cases the speakers were attacking some one or some group, without saying whom. This left the job of interpretation to what they really meant to the public or commentators for newspapers and radio.

But an interpretation by someone else is always second hand, and open to doubt, and the speaker can always return and say he was misinterpreted, which is a convenience, particularly in politics. Since this is a traditional political tactic — making charges without naming names or being specific as the public is led to it and never surprised, no matter how often it happens.

On Aug. 14, President Truman bluntly denounced "shamefaced" who have adopted "emphatic opposition" to him. He named no one.

There was no doubt he was hitting at Senator McCarthy, Whigham, Republic, and those who have supported him in Congress and out. McCarthy promptly acknowledged the attack was on him.

At any rate, since the President's attack, other government officials have followed the same line and this may have been interpreted as the beginning of an all-out Truman administration campaign against McCarthy.

Former President Hoover, in a low speech on Aug. 3, largely devoted to calling for a return of what he considers old virtues in his country, said among other things:

"We have a dangerous growth of intellectual dishonesty in public life, which is mostly beyond the law. One of the chief instrumental is corrupt propaganda.... There are a lot of men in public who, and undoubtedly are not and none who probably are dishonest but the question left unanswered for those who followed this speech was this: Who's honest and who's honest?

General MacArthur, in a speech at Cleveland on Sept. 7, made a talk which, because of its apparent careful avoidance of the specific has been interpreted in several ways.

At the start he said:

"It is gratifying indeed to have this opportunity to address the citizens of Cleveland and of the state of Ohio — a state which has contributed so abundantly to America's leadership past and contemporary. Indeed, indications multiply that this leadership may even be increased in the not too distant future."

At first glance the interpreters thought this surely meant the general, some interpreters thought the general, wouldn't support Taft at all but would like the nomination himself.

This might amuse the general, who has said he has no political ambitions, but the public itself will have to remain puzzled until the general speaks some more or until

RAY PORTER hung up, finally, and turned around with a dozed expression on his face and a worried frown on his usually plump brow.

"What's happened?" Holly Dunn demanded. She had visions of Police Chief Jose Montero giving Steve his ex-fiancee Carmelita Hernandez. In a magnificent gesture, Steve gonded beyond ordinary, hauling off and letting him have it. And that would land Steve in plenty of hot water.

"They're holding Steve on a charge of plotting to overthrow the government," said Ray, unbelievably.

"Of what?" gasped Holly. So they hadn't been making faces at each other because of her, like characters in a comic operal. She had a queer set-down feeling.

"You, plotting against the government. They claim they have written proof in which he accuses Senor Hernandez of putting his own men in office, and also that he talked with some of Diego Vegas' men. Also, he referred to the great Jose himself as 'cunning and avaricious, riding to power on the wave of Hernandez's gold.' It took Jose a little while to look the words up and find out what they meant, and when he found out he didn't like it. Can't say I blame him much either. But of course it's ridiculous to think Steve."

"But he did," whined Holly. "In his article about Latin American politics — on the page that was missing from the carbon this morning — Oh, Ray! Go see Jose right away. Tell him — tell him I got my short-hand mixed up and he didn't mean that at all. Tell him — tell him anything, only go and see him quick!"

Holly could well understand that. "What — what will they do to him?" she asked.

"Jose considered, "For plotting against the government, and for spying, the penalty is death before a firing squad."

"Oh, no!" Holly felt herself getting faint and the room whirling around her.

Jose shrugged his shoulders. "I cannot help it — it is the law. However — maybe —"

"Maybe what?" Holly sensed a ray of hope, and seized it. "Could be — if you are nice to me, that is — I let him out on bail. Then maybe — just maybe — I'll let him. It is all a mistake — just a jealous woman's spite..."

"So it was Carmelita Hernandez who told you?"

"I DO NOT say. I will tell them that — but only will I do it for my wife, Senorita. Only because it makes my wife unhappy, and I cannot bear to see you unhappy. Anything I will do for you — when you are my wife."

"Oh," said Holly weakly. "How nice I have to be to get him out on bail?" If Steve were just released she was sure Ray would think of something.

"A date with you, Senorita. Lunch, a long drive all afternoon, then dinner at my hacienda in the mountains — just the two of us. Yes?"

Holly considered. There was little to consider, really. After what had happened that morning she knew Steve was disgusted with her — would blame her for engineering the whole thing, having the opinion he had of women. On the other hand, he was in jail, facing a death sentence, accused of plotting against the government!

"Elisa will be worried," she said. "May I send a note to her telling where I am going?" Then — "Good!" He smiled triumphantly. "I knew you would cooperate. A note? Of course!" He gave her a sheet of official police stationery and a pen, and she wrote the explanatory letter to Elisa:

"If I give Jose Montero a date he will release Steve on bail, and I think it is worth it. I am having lunch with him, driving in the afternoon, and dinner at his hacienda."

GOP Mixed in Praise for Acheson

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Sept. 12 — (AP) — Now the Republicans are squabbling among themselves about Secretary of State Acheson — praising and blaming — which is break in the usual routine of united Republican attacks.

This probably leaves Acheson fairly cool. Long ago he had to learn to live under Republican criticism of the harshest kind, expecting few pleasant words from that direction.

While toughening his skin against the long barrage, of course, he may have become just little more self-conscious, knowing that no matter what he did he might get a kick in his well-pressed pants.

This kind of self-consciousness in a secretary of state could have a lasting effect on history, although historians might never be able to point out when or where, for this is possible:

A man made self-conscious about his every decision, knowing each may be criticized, may lean over backwards to make pleasing decisions instead of the kind he'd make if his untroubled judgment was being used.

But the subject which brought about the present Republican squabble about Acheson is hardly more than academic. The way he handled the Japanese peace treaty conference at San Francisco and torpedoed Russian attempts to wreck it.

Two Republican senators — known as California's Smith of New Jersey — who had been outspoken critics of Acheson paid tribute to his work at the conference.

This didn't sit well with another Republican, Senator Malone of Nevada, who sees trouble from the treaty and disaster from all of Acheson's dealings with China, got under way.

So the real job of handling the conference was done before it became what would mean the end of Nationalist China and the entry of Red China into the United Nations.

"Acheson," he said, "has been a party to everything that is now resulting in the loss of China."

But what made the Senate discussion about Acheson's work in San Francisco academic in the first place was this:

He did only what anyone in his position would have done if he had been secretary of state and had my sense at all: He shut up the Russians and rammed through the treaty.

Magnolia Boy Hangs Himself

Magnolia, Sept. 12 — (AP) — An 11-year-old boy accidentally hanged himself on a homemade trapze in the garage of his home here.

Night Chief of Police Leo Neely said the boy was Thomas A. Spaulding, 3rd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Spaulding Jr.

Neely said young Spaulding's body was found early last night by a younger sister.

The accident apparently occurred when the youth mounted a ladder to reach the trapze, lost his balance, fell and caught his neck in the rope. Neely said,

One of those arrested was a clothing manufacturer, allegedly seeking to collect insurance.

The detective died as he pursued the trail of an arson plot that backfired last night into an inferno which wrecked a nine-story loft building.

One of the alleged arsonists was taken to a hospital in critical condition with burns.

The explosion — on West 18th street just off Fifth avenue — shook a large area.

Damage to the building, its contents and the surrounding area may exceed $1,000,000 Chief Fire Marshal Martin Scott said. Thirty-five pieces of fire apparatus responded to five alarms.

Shortly before the explosion at 8:30 p. m. (EST) three detectives tried to enter the loft and manufacturing building.

A drum containing 55 gallons of gasoline blew up on the fifth floor, sending flames throughout the building.

Windows were shattered for blocks around, and the street was littered with glass and splintered wood. Dense smoke covered the area and thousands of persons were attracted to the scene.

They said that apparently too much gasoline was used, and fumes might have been ignited prematurely by the lighting device. No timing device or fuse was found in the ruins, however.

Police listed the dead as Detective James Daggett, 38, and Moe Shapiro, one of four men alleged to have entered the building to commit arson.

Jack Weiss, 67, of Brooklyn, was charged with homicide and arson as he lay at St. Vincent's Hospital in serious condition with burns.

Police said Weiss had been hired by Al Keshner, 42-year-old president of Keshner Incorporated, manufacturers of sports coats, on the fifth floor of the building.

The five-foot-10 Miss America then left for New York City where she will spend the next few days.

Kansas Would Welcome Cadets

Manhattan, Kas., Sept. 11 — (UPI) — Kansas State college, winner of one conference football game in the Big Seven since 1944, has a welcome sign out for ousted West Point cadets.

The plan calls for Britain to resume negotiations on Mossadegh's oil nationalization policies or see the 300 British technicians remaining at the old Anglo-Iranian company's Abadan refinery thrown out of the country.

The ultimatum was routed to Nasrullah Entezam, Iran's ambassador in Washington, to turn over to W. Averell Harriman, President Truman's special envoy who tried to mediate the quarrel.

The government spokesman said Harriman promised when he left Iran that he would do anything further to help settle the dispute. Harriman will be asked to relay the ultimatum to London.

The opposition deputies signed a communique accusing the premier of making names of Britain and the U. S.

It charged him with failing to carry out promises of riches he made when he pushed through a law nationalizing the British-owned Anglo-Iranian oil company installations four months ago.

"Before we were opposed only by the former oil company," the communique said. "But as a result of all this (nationalization) activity we are now opposed by the United States and British governments."

Fanatic nationalist front supporters of the premier last week threatened assassination for those who opposed Mossadegh's policies. His followers denounced the communique signers as pro-British — a term synonymous with "traitor" to the nationalists.

But one deputy said there were 30 in the majlis (lower house of parliament) who would vote against Mossadegh in a showdown.

Opposition deputies have been boycotting the majlis sessions to keep it from muster a quorum of 75 on the confidence vote Mossadegh seeks.

Sugar Ray Gets Nod Over Turpin

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

New York, Sept. 12 (AP)—The most eagerly awaited prize fight of recent years is scheduled to take place out around second base at the Polo Grounds tonight. Randy Turpin of England, a pugilistic upstart, will give Sugar Ray Robinson of Hartlepool a return shot at the middleweight title. He won from him in London two months ago.

American fans have never fully recovered from their shock and amazement of July 10 upon learning that Sugar Ray, regarded by many experts as the most superlative ringman of the generation had dropped his 160-pound crown to the 23-year-old Turpin in 15 rugged, bony rounds.

Tonight they will come close to packing the huge baseball park to its capacity of 50,000, weather permitting, to watch the Harlem hotshot seek his revenge. At $30 top, the spectacle will afford the throng an opportunity either to vindicate its judgment of Robinson as a great fighter or to bail Turpin as a true champion.

A tremendous advance sale which might reach $600,000 before the two men enter the ring at 8 p. m. CST has been spurred by the knowledge there will be no television or radio. Audiences in 11 cities outside New York will, however, be privileged to watch it on movie screens at prices ranging to $2.00.

The two were due to weigh in noon today at the offices of the boxing commission in the lower city, feet somewhat comparable to holding a three-ring circus in a phone booth. Neither has had any difficulty making the weight. Turpin was expected to do about 156, Robinson 157. In their first fight, the Englishman had a full four pounds more.

Robinson has been a firm betting favorite ever since the return bout was set and a vast majority of American experts favor him to win, mainly by a decision in the full 15 rounds. There has been very little bookmaking around here, for reasons best known to the bookmakers, but there has been considerable man-to-man betting to 2 to 1 on Robinson.

Those few Americans who have seen Turpin fight at one or two, as well as a large group of English boxing writers and fans who are over for the bout, believe these odds to be a terrific overlay.

Elsewhere Washington ended a nine-game losing streak with a 10-inning 7-0 victory over the Chicago White Sox. Sam Mel's single scored Tom Ferrick with Tom Ferrick with the winning run.

Brooklyn moved a step nearer to clinching the National flag, shutting out Cincinnati, 7-6, as the St. Louis Cards held the New York Giants to a split. Cliff Chambers Redbird lefthander, stemmed a three-run ninth inning uprising to walk off with a 4-3 win after the Giants had clubbed out a 10-5 opening victory. The Dodgers lead is now six games over the Giants.

Philadelphia's Phils nipped Pittsburgh, 3-2, to snap a six-game losing streak and Chicago's Cubs outslugged Boston's Braves, 13-11.

Superb relief pitching by Early Wynn, who won his own game with an 11th inning triple, saved the Indians from suffering the same fate as the Yankees. Twice Wynn pitched himself out of trouble with the bases loaded, in the ninth and tenth, before he broke up the game.

The loss was the tenth in a row for Carl Schell. The victory was Wynn's 18th against 12 defeats.

The A's watched a 4-1 lead, built at the expense of Bob Feller, go up in smoke when Cleveland rallied for four runs in the eighth to take a 5-4 advantage. The fighting Phils, however, roared back with five tallies in the bottom of the eighth on only three hits, a couple of walks and some loose play by the Indians. Perez's RBI single was the only solid blow off loser Lou Brissie and Mike Gracia. Bob Hooper was the winner.

A bases-loaded single by Ted Williams drove in the tying and winning runs for the Red Sox in the eighth. It was only Boston's third hit of the game. Leo Kiely, helped by Ellis Kinder's 34th relief appearance, won his sixth game.

Clint Labine pitched a six-hit shutout to notch his third victory in as many starts since he joined the Dodgers last month. Andy Pafko and Gil Hodges banged 10 two runs apiece for the winners.

Whitey Lockman's two-run triple and Wes Westrum's bases loaded homer were the big blows in the Giants' first game victory. Del Rice's infield single in the eighth drove in what proved to be the winning run for the Cards in the second game as Larry Jansen went down to his 11th defeat.

Robin Roberts won his 19th game for the Phils with a five-hitter. Pinch Hitter Bob Ramazzotti's two-run double broke up an 11-11 tie for the Cubs.

A man, and he is not easy to hit with a pattern of punches such as Robinson likes to employ. He proved in training that he is ready to go 15 rounds at top speed, almost without breathing hard. Some are convinced that the former champion will have to nail him early, and good, if he is to win.

The only question among Robinson's more ardent supporters is whether their idol suddenly has "gone over the hill." If he is the Sugar Ray they saw butchering up Jake LaMotta to win the title, the amazing craftsman who had lost only one of his 131 fights before he ran into Turpin, they can imagine only one result tonight.

History tells them, however, that every great athlete at one time another crosses that thin, invisible line and starts down the other side, and they can't be certain that Sugar Ray didn't burn up precious stamina while fighting those one-night stands and dodging pop bottles around Europe.

Double Defeat Chills Yank Pennant Fight

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

Bethlehem, Pa., Sept. 12 (AP)—

You might expect a few unusual ideas from a guy who lifts heavy bar bells in preparation for swinging a 13 or 14 ounce golf club. And you get them from middleman Frank Stranahan. . . . Frank's interest in weight-lifting and healthy diets are pretty well known and few people are surprised when he comes into the grill room at swanky Saenger's valley with a brown paper bag full of fruit and orders a glass of milk to go with it for his lunch. . . . They know he could buy lunch for everybody in the house if he ate like it, but he only eats what he wants. . . . And late, including himself, can do still another idea is that any athlete when he's tense instead of relaxed. . . . That's contrary to golf dogma, but after Frankie was abruptly ousted from the 1951 amateur golf championship in the first round he was arguing that it was more the win-loss not only sent most of those upsets. . . . They get place but dropped them a full four in front of the third place.

A former Boston pitcher and one of the usually inert St. Louis Browns who stunned the baseball world by inflicting 4-3 and 6-3 defeats upon the defending champion in the first game of the Negro Leagues, . . . The Browns won the title in the Ark-La-Tex semi-pro league.

World's deepest oil well is in Sulphur county, Wyoming. It is almost 24,000 feet deep and still going down.

"It always happens," says Charlie. "On those planes you either have to check your baggage or your golf clubs and I figure I can always lay my clothes but I can't lay golf without my clubs." . . . Gay Brewer, Jr., of Lexington, Ky., one of the array of teenagers who have been 'surprises' here, won the Kentucky open title just before coming here. And he's still a high school senior. . . . Story heard around the golf course is that Tom Hamilton is bringing his Pitt foot ball team to Bethlehem for a scrimmage against Bethlehem Saturday with a dual purpose in mind. He wants to test his defenses against a split-T offense and he wants to observe Bill Leckonby's coaching efforts. . . . Tom, you remember, returned to coaching this year only as a temporary measure and Bill could be high on the list of candidates for 1952.

—Short Putts—

Greasy Neale, who probably is the highest paid "sideline" coach in pro football since the Philadelphia Eagles ousted him, was doing just that on the golf course—standing behind the ropes and watching the stars put. . . . Challenging his murmur of "I could beat these guys if they gave me 17 strokes," a reporter jibed: "Still the optimist going for that touch-down pass."

—Last Word—

Charlie Cee, the 1949 amateur champ, lost his baggage through an airline mixup on his way here from Oklahoma and it didn't catch up with him for a couple of days.

Arkansas May Have Record Rice Crop

Little Rock, Sept. 12.—(UPI)—Arkansas already the nation's third largest rice producer, may set a production record this year.

Miles McPeak, agricultural statistician, said yesterday that the department of agriculture had estimated Arkansas' 1951 crop at 10,250,000 bags. This is more than a million bags over the state's previous record, set in 1945. That year, a total of 9,230,000 bags were harvested. Last year's output was 7,755,000 bags.

Rice planters have 440,000 acres in cultivation this year, 63,000 more than in 1949. The 1949 acreage was 343,000.

The yield per acre for 1951 is expected to be 107 pounds less than in 1949. The predicted yield per acre for this year is 2,300 pounds compared with 2,407 in 1949.

The corn harvest outlook was not so bright, the department estimated the state's production at 27,875,000 bushels. It would be the smallest crop since 1947, when 22,825,000 bushels were produced.

The yield per acre was predicted at 25 bushels compared to 27 bushels last year.

Lana Turner Seeks Another Divorce

Hollywood, Sept. 11.—(UPI)—Lana Turner is calling it quits after three years of marriage with Milburn Spitzman Henry J. (Bob) Topping.

It issued a statement that the couple had disagreed but that the situation might be clarified later when Topping returned from a trip.

Men. Turner said she had no definite plans "at the moment" about instituting a divorce action.

Her marriage to the triple-tier April 26, 1948, was a lavish and costly affair, held in the home of W. B. Wilkerson, publisher of a Hollywood trade paper. It was Lana's fourth marriage. Her first was to Bandleader Artie Shaw; her second and third to Restaurant owner Stephen Crane.
